ELECTRIC MASSAGE

HEALTHY & HAPPY.

CONDITIONS ON THE PRATAS SHOAL.

OFFICIAL'S STATEMENT.

MACHINERY LANDED WITH DIFFICULTY.

Anticipations that the organization for complete meteorological information from Pratas
would be complete before the end of the year will not be realized,
although it should not be more than a month or so before the station is complete. In the meantime the abbreviated information which has been regularly despatched to the Hongkong Observatory by means of a field set, will continue.

In conversation with a "China Mail" representative, the official representative of the Central Government of Peking who had just returned from a visit to Pratas, stated yesterday that the station would be functioning fully by the end of January. On the occasion of his visit a continuous wave tube set (made by the Telefunken Co., Germany)
had been landed after considerable difficulty and all that was wanted now were a few parts for transmissions, batteries, etc. The main circuit transmitter, he understood, was wet and would not function and this would lead to some delay as it would have to be replaced.

It had been a difficult task to land the machinery as the boat
by which they had gone (the "Akuta Maru") could not enter the lagoon. Boats drawing more than ten feet of water could not enter. The machinery had been landed by motor boat and sam-
pan.

Growing Vegetables.

The coolies who had been engaged to replace those who had died through beri-beri were all healthy and contented, stated our informant. The scheme for growing vegetables had proved a success and more seeds were being provided. A snapshot of the main water distilling plant (capable of distilling 100 lbs. of water per hour) was shown our representative, also a bird's eye view of the complete station, built of concrete blocks, in the construction of which some 900 tons of materials have been used. The station nestles in a hollow and on either side tower the wireless masts and lighthouse. A partially completed edifice rising from the main building is known technically as the anemometer
station.

Asked if the Central Government of Peking considered it necessary to hold an enquiry into the circumstances attending the death of the coolies among whom occurred the outbreak of beriberi, the "China Mail" informant stated that the question of food for the coolies was undoubtedly one for which the contractors were entirely responsible. The contract definitely stated this.
The Central Government had,
since the outbreak, provided certain supplies for the coolies in addition to the Admiralty wireless officers, among whom there had been no cases of beri-beri.
Other than that he declined to make a further statement.

The official in question will be proceeding to the Paracels
to carry out a preliminary investigation for the erection of a wireless station there as soon as the organisation is complete for the functioning of the station at Pratas.

RUBBER.

SUCCESSFUL SHARE TRANSACTION.

AN AMERICAN WEDGE.

(Reuter's American Service.)

New York, Dec. 16.

The initial issue of 5,000 shares of a hundred guilders each to the Dutch-American Rubber Plantation Company has been fully subscribed at the price of $40 a share.

Bankers concerned with the issue, and a wedge of American participation in rubber production, the Dutch-American Rubber Plantation Company, has been fully subscribed at the price of $40 a share.

LOCAL DISTRAINTS.

WHEN THEY ARE NOT LEGAL.

A BAILIFF'S DUTY.

Having fallen into arrears with rent payments, a distress warrant was issued against a Chinese master of a river steamer and the bailiff visited the address, 107, Wing Lok Street, which was given as that of the man who owed the money. Here he seized furniture and trade goods which it subsequently transpired were the property of firms to whom the man in question had sub-let.
An application was therefore made for wrongful distress and Mr. Justice Wood gave his verdict to-day.

He pointed out that according to the law at home, it was legal to seize all chattels which were on the tenants' premises without reference to ownership but quoted the local Ordinance under which property can only be seized which is found in the house and in the "apparent" possession of the person from whom the rent
is claimed.

"As the tenant in question in this case was a seafaring man and the goods in question were not those which one would expect to find in the possession of a man of that type, also, taking into consideration that the goods were stated at the time to the bailiff to be other than those of the tenant owing money, his Honour found that distress had been wrongfully levied. The property seized was ordered to be released. Each party was to pay costs of action."

Mr. C. A. S. Russ represented
the successful claimant and Mr.
R. A. Watson the owner of the property.

JAPAN'S WARNING.

NOTICE TO CHINESE GENERALS.

(Reuter's Service.)

Tokyo, Dec. 16.

A Government spokesman has stated that Chang Tso-lin and Kuo Song-ling will be notified by the Japanese that no fighting will be permitted within six miles of the capital.

The spokesman stated that all Consuls have requested Japan to take all steps to protect foreigners in the capital.

Japanese troops have been instructed to maintain absolute neutrality.

No more troops are to be sent except the aforementioned, unless the situation demands it.

It is explained that the Portsmouth treaty allowed Japan
approximately 15,000 railway guards in Manchuria, but even with reinforcements the total is only 8,000.

The Japanese do not expect that Chang Tso-lin will attempt refuge in Mukden, even as a private citizen, as his life is exposed by the Chinese; but will probably flee to Dairen or some other Japanese territory, if de-fected.

Official advices indicate that Chang's mercenary troops are near revolt. Numerous footings are reported.

The most strict measures are deemed necessary to prevent the loss of lives, and the property of nationals and foreigners.

It is stated that Chang previously removed most of his arms
and munitions from the arsenal.

TO-DAY'S DOLLAR.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. C. Burnett
returned from home yesterday
after a six months' holiday in England.

To-day's weather report states that the typhoon has curved to the north of the Pelew Islands.
Strong monsoon may be expected along the S.E. coast of China and over the N. China Sea. Until noon to-morrow the forecast is N.E.
winds, strong; generally overcast,
some drizzle or mist.

MOSUL QUESTION.

LEAGUE'S MOMENTOUS DECISION.

WILL TURKEY FIGHT?

STRONG PARISIAN COMMENT.

(Reuter's Service.)

Geneva, Dec. 16.

Unofficial news is that under the League's ultimatum, arbitral award, Iraq retains Mosul
under certain conditions, the chief of which is the evacuation of the mandate, while the British sells "line" is maintained.

There is to be provision for free economic intercourse between Mosul and Turkey. Russians also a guarantee for the use of the Kurdish language and the ratification of the 25 years
Anglo-Turkish treaty.

NEWSPAPER COMMENT.

Paris, Dec. 16.

Commenting on the Mosul discussions, "Le Oeuvre" says the decision of the League will be

Mustapha Kemal.

a rude shock to Mustafa Kemal,
and hopes the latter will reflect carefully on the consequences on an eventual attack on the forces
at Iraq of Great Britain.

"Le Gaulois" says the whole danger of the situation lies in the possibility of Turkey being supported by Soviet Russia,
making a desperate gesture.

"Le Gaulois" opines that the League's Council's verdict is prompted by the hope that the dispute will be subject to direct Anglo-Turkish negotiations.

"Le Petit Parisien" foresees a vigorous Turkish opposition to the decision, and adds that if the Turks indulge in a war-like adventure, Great Britain could invoke the covenant of the League to claim sanctions.

"Le Echo de Paris" says the Turks will only bow to strength and the only way for the British Empire to safeguard the peace is to exercise its strength resolutely.

DECISION REACHED.

Geneva, Dec. 16.

The League Council, in public session, has announced the unanimous decision to award Mosul to Iraq, making the so-called provisional British Government
submit a new Anglo-Iraq treaty ensuring the continuation of the mandate of 25 years.

The latter is to be subject to the reservation that Iraq may be admitted to membership of the League before the expiration thereof or as soon as possible within three years hence, and the execution of the stipulation with regard to the mandate is to be brought to the Council's knowledge. The present decision is announced definitive, and the Council will indicate measures required to ensure the delimitation of the frontier line.

The Turkish Delegates did not accept the President of the Council's invitation to attend but a letter from Tawfik Kiaz Bey,
the chief Turkish Delegate, was received reiterating the Turkish view point and declaring that Turkey maintained its position
firmly over Mosul.

THREE THINGS.

An earlier message from Baghdad stated that a British consul, Mr. G. W. C. Burnett, had been arrested by the Turks and was being held in custody at Mosul.

HIS WIFE'S MONEY.

LIVERPOOL WOMAN AND LOCAL LOAN.

ADVANCED TO 'EMPRESS' BOYS.

The European wife of a Chinese named Chai Yue-hi figured as the principal witness in a case in which the return of $800 money
lent was claimed.

The woman in question (who has a boarding house in Waterloo Road, Yaumatei) said that she advanced the money to her husband for his cousin whom she knew in Liverpool prior to her coming to Hongkong with her husband. She was reluctant to do so as it constituted her passage money back to England but the cousin told her that he would lose his "lot" if he "did not, get the money."

The defendant had been the
No. 1 saloon boy on the "Empress of Canada" and had told her that he had to pay the boys for what they required to take with them
on board the ship, this being advanced on their future earnings.
As he had no money at the time he was afraid of losing his job.

The case for the defence was that only $100 had been lent to the defendant and the rest of the money claimed for had been lent
direct to the "boys" of the "Empress of Canada." Defendant denied liability for their debts.

Plaintiff, in evidence, said that he had been engaged by the Government during the strike to get coolies for ships. He said, did work of this sort for the C.P.R.
and engaged and put on board the "boys." He denied that the money had been lent to them direct and said that his cousin was responsible.

A book, was produced by Mr.
M. W. Lo (for the defendant) in support of the claim that the plaintiff went on board the "Empress of Canada" collecting the individual debts from the boys and jotting down their names and the amounts.

In view of this Mr. Justice Wood said that he did not think it much good proceeding with the case.

Mr. L. D. Turner (for the plaintiff) contended. He had evidently been misinformed by his client and had no option but to drop the case.

Judgment was entered for the defendant with costs.

HARBOUR COLLISION.

FISHING JUNK DAMAGED.

MINOR MOTOR MISHAPS.

Three small motor accidents
and a harbour collision were reported to have occurred yesterday.

A public ricksha was smashed
when a motor lorry ran into it at the junction of Wing Lok Street and Des Voeux Road. Near the Western Market and at Morrison Gap Road, a Chinese woman and an Indian received slight bruises
when they were struck down by motor cars.

Damaged estimated at $1,000
was done to a fishing junk anchored near the Hungghom ferry pier
when the steam launch "Yu Cheong" getting under way from the pier at 6 p.m. yesterday
collided with the junk, striking it amidships on the port side. 25
penns was caused among the crew of the junk when the collision occurred, but none of them was injured.

Quarantine restrictions have been imposed on arrivals from Shanghai on account of smallpox.

Mosul settlement which British accepted and welcomed through harvesting great amounts of the winter wheat of the decision.
With regard to Iraq a message from Baghdad stated that the Iraqi Government had accepted the League's decision and had considerable quantities of wheat and oil and had received considerable amounts of money from the League for the purpose of rebuilding the city.

THE BOYCOTT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS QUESTION.

THE UNOFFICIAL FORM.

(Reuter's Service.)

London, December 16.

At the House of Commons Mr.
W. Ormsby Gore replying to Mr.
H. W. Looker with regard to the Chinese boycott of British goods and particularly of British trade
from Hongkong, reported that unofficial discussions were proceeding between representatives of Chinese merchants in Hongkong and Canton.

The Strike Committee thought it far more likely that good would result if negotiations were left in an unofficial form at present.

[Mr. H. W. Looker was formerly a Solicitor in Hongkong.]

SINGAPORE BASE.

THE QUESTION OF LABOUR.

SUPPLY NOT AFFECTED.

(Reuter's Service.)

London, December 16.

In the House of Commons replying to Mr. H. Penny who called attention to the allegation that the Labour Party supply to the plantations in the vicinity of the Naval Base at Singapore
would be greatly depleted by Government competition, Sir A. Davison stated he had been advised from Singapore that the present labour
needs of the Base were insufficient greatly to affect the supply of labour
at Singapore where there was at present a big demand owing to the prosperity of the rubber and tin industries.

He added that the Admiralty Officers were co-operating with the local Government.

He had made a note of the submission that the most suitable labour for naval purposes was recruitable from the northern and not from the southern provinces of India.

HAYLEY MORRISS.

AN UNEXPECTED TURN.

JUDGE'S OBSERVATIONS.

(Reuter's Service.)

London, Dec. 16.

In the concluding stages in the Hayley Morris trial at Lewes, proceedings were interrupted for a few minutes owing to the female defendant fainting in the dock.

She was temporarily removed and subsequently the case for the Crown was finished, upon which
Mr. Roland Oliver, for Morris, and Sir H. Curtis Bennett for the wife testified that neither would be called to give evidence.

Mr. Oliver said that Sir H.
Curtis Bennett did not consider that the woman was fit to take her trial and as there was a joint indictment he did not propose to offer further observations.

Sir H. Curtis Bennett said they had advised his client not to enter the box. The jury could not rely on the evidence against her.

Mr. Justice Ivory intimated that in view of the unexpected turn the case had taken, his summing up would be longer than he hoped, and might extend until to-morrow.

He expressed the view that the woman defendant was in a perfectly fit condition to be tried.

His Lordship asked if the jury could accept the final charge for the jury sitting in the box at court and addressing the jury
on his behalf.

GOLF

There was once a Hongkong kupo who said he would sooner be the golf champion of Hongkong than be a member of its Legislative Council. Such a desire may not say much for the Legislative Council, or the sense of "civic service" which membership of it should connote; it does say a lot for the enthusiasm which the royal and ancient game provokes amongst its many adherents. A local professor of music has put it on record that some of his pupils are more concerned with the idea of a correct stance, approach shot, putting, and the ability to beat Colonel Bage, than with the complete subjugation of—say—Czerny and his one hundred and one exercises for the piano. Golf then, hath her virtues no less renowned than any of the many things that help either to pass the time, shake up the liver, or provide topic for conversation. The game is not sufficiently ancient enough to provide us with historic examples of calm and quietude—and resolve. There is no golf Drake of bygone days who completed his eighteen holes whilst an armadillo, so to speak, approached to make an effective shot. There is though that terrible but true story of the French Premier who came to Clevedon, tried his practice hand at golf with the gentlemanly Herbert Towns as "The West" and was seen as an old man, and went back to his active hand, went to his office and the confidence of his people. There may be a moral in this, but let moralists—and others—discover it if they can. In Hongkong we take the game seriously but splendidly. The game improves our physique—and often our vocabulary! We journey to Fanling, to Happy Valley, and often to the green sward—a licence must be allowed us—at Deep Water Bay. Little do we think of all the thought that is put into the control of the game by those whose enthusiasm has urged them to the highest sense of disinterested service. The annual meeting of the Royal Hongkong Golf Club is a serious affair, when the past year is quietly analysed and the problems it has brought its train and occupied the minds of the members of its Committee, brought to full notice. There is in it perhaps a suggestion that we are apt to become slaves of the game instead of being its master; but reflection suggests that where two or three golfers are gathered together in pursuit of a small ball, there must be problems of comfort in the midst of them. This is the nearest reference to prayer book or Biblical language we dare go in writing of a game which, alas! can take us far from such desirable things. What was once the special game of the European community, has now spread to our Portuguese and Japanese friends. The Chinese will soon, we hope, take it up. They should do well in a pastime in which the wrist, the eye, and that calm, attitude of mind so necessary to success in any calling, are so much called into play. This is exemplified in the two gentlemen, members of the Government service, honoured by their fellow golfers in being elected to the high offices of President and Captain respectively of the Golf Club. At this, let us leave this engaging subject, wishing the Club a speedy deliverance from all its afflictions, undeserved as undoubtedly they are.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

THE LATE M. PAUL KREMER.

THIS MORNING'S CEREMONY.

A Requiem Mass was celebrated at St. Joseph's Church, Garden Road, this morning in memory of, and for the repose of the soul of, M. Paul Kremer, late French Consul in Hongkong, who died in Peking last week.

The service, which was a lengthy and impressive one with a full choir in attendance, was conducted by the Rev. Father Robert, assisted by members of the French Mission, and the altar was draped in black. The Dead March in Saul was rendered at the conclusion of the impressive ceremony.

The attendance included members of the French community, among them Mons. Yves du Courthial (French Consul) and Madame du Courthial. A large number of others were also present including the Portuguese Consul-General.

KOWLOON MATTERS.

At the monthly meeting of the Kowloon Residents' Association (held at St. Andrew's Church Hall with the President, Mr. W. S. Bailey, in the chair) the following matters came up for consideration:

Children's Playground.—As only a strip of ground along Chatham Road and not the full area further back from the road had been prepared by Government, the President is to interview the Hon. Colonial Secretary upon this matter with a view to obtaining for the children the full area for which the Association had asked the Government.

Dangerous Cycling by Youths in Kowloon.—A letter was read from the C.S.P. that this practice was not confined to Chinese and the Hon. Secretary was instructed to write the C.S.P. that the Association's complaint included all offenders against whom heavier penalties should be devised.

Numbering of Houses in Kowloon.—The Hon. Secretary was instructed to again write the Government on this subject, giving specific instances of confusion in numbering, with consequent annoyance in wrong deliveries or non-deliveries of letters, etc.

Kowloon Hospital.—The Hon. Secretary was requested to respectfully request the Government to open this Hospital.

Mr. H. E. Stearns, who was a most unimpaired person, was a most unimpaired person. The Archdeacon of Canterbury. The business man is completely demoralising the theatre. Sir Barry Jackson. I believe that a good time is coming for industry. Sir Isaac Newton. The worst thing that can happen to a man is to be a failure. Sir Isaac Newton.

SHREDS AND PATCHES.

WHAT JACK says is—
Is—
all the rules. The word came from a little town in the Southern States of America where the "toughs" used to shout, "Chas. Chas." for a negro minstrel, Charles by name.

"Chas." became "Jazz," and the name stuck to the "music," which took New York by storm at the time of the Armistice. But when folk cooled down "jazz" properly so termed, gently expired.

Here is a fine point submitted in a recent book written by a medical man—
"Where are you going?" asked the Pilgrim of the Plague.

"I am going to Bagdad to kill five thousand people," answered the Plague.

"Later the Pilgrim met the Plague returning.

"You told me that you were going to Bagdad to kill five thousand people," said the Pilgrim.

"Indeed you killed fifty thousand," said the Plague.

"I killed five thousand," said the Plague. "I killed five thousand."

The Hen is a ferocious bird. She pecks you till she makes you howl.

And all the time she daps her wings, and says the most insulting things.

And when you try to take her eggs, she bites large pieces from your legs.

The only safe way to get these is to creep on your hands and knees.

In the meanwhile a friend must hide, and jump out on the other side.

And then you snatch the eggs and run, while she pursues the other one.

The difficulty is, to find a trusty friend who will not mind.

A doubtful friend is a doubtful friend. Distrust him when you hear him laugh.

He laughs like people at a ball, and not because he's pleased at all.

He stretches out his neck like tape, until his length precludes escape.

And then he dexterously throws the window open with his nose.

And if you hide beneath a chair, he finds you out, and pins you there.

THE STUDY OF GAELIC CULTURE.

Glasgow, not Inverness, may safely boast of being the real Highland Capital of Scotland, says the "Christian Science Monitor." It is on the fringe of four Celtic divisions; it contains a quarter of a million Highlanders; it has clan societies, associations, and organisations; and it shows a greater interest perhaps than any other city in the language, music, history and customs of the Gael. To crown all, it has just opened a Highlanders' Institute, the object of which is to encourage the study of things Gaelic, to promote the home industries of the Highlands, and to provide a "home" or meeting place for the sons of Scotland. Hitherto the gathering place for men from the north has been the arches in Argyle Street, under the railway tracks of the Central Station.

The Institute may retard the decline of Gaelic, although the hope that Gaelic might continue as a living language have long grown dim. Thirty years ago Scotland had four times as many persons as it has to-day speaking nothing but Gaelic. In 1891, the figures were 43,788; in 1921, they had decreased to 10,814. Indeed, it is a rare thing to hear the language spoken in the streets, and only in a remote village like Ballychulish, near the Pass of Glencoe, may it be heard occasionally in conversation.

The cause of the decline is not to be found in outside influences. Rather it is to be traced to the Highland home. The Highlander, unable to speak English in his early years, has found Gaelic a handicap in dealing with the outside world. Therefore he has encouraged his children to learn English, believing that to insist upon teaching Gaelic would merely perpetuate the difficulty under which he laboured.

Indeed, it is the Highlander away from his native mountain and river who is the man, argon, champion of Gaelic. He is the one who will attach himself to the Gaelic language, and who will encourage his children to learn it. He is the one who will encourage his children to learn it. He is the one who will encourage his children to learn it.

"Old boy, you motor rhymes know my little 'My Little Bus'—"

Bus. When he has got thus far, the owner-driver will discuss the merits of his car.

He'll tell the tale of Shadki Hill (That hazardous ascent); it can't be done in "top," but still "Right up in 'top' he went.

Petrol consumption? Very sound: One gallon, per ninety miles. And all? A pint will take you round.

And round the Hongkong at once.

Suchlike phenomena he'll cite, With envy you are green; You realise his is a quite Superlative machine.

Then, after making all this fuss, He sells it for a song. And someone gets the "little bus" Dirt-cheap in "dear" Hongkong.

Lord Grey tells a story of Lord Balfour's story in "Twenty-five Years: 1892-1918."

Returning to London from Paris during the war, Lord Grey was accompanied by Lloyd George and Mr. Balfour. It was a "ditty" Channel crossing and later, when all three were comfortably settled in a Pullman en route from Dover to London, this conversation took place—

Lord Grey: I couldn't help thinking about mines on the way over.

Lloyd George (wearily): Oh! I was feeling much too bad to think of mines.

Arthur Balfour (with convincing emphasis): "I longed for a mine."

This seems "the time place and opportunity to pass along the best Balfour story we know. It was in Paris during the Peace Conference. Two secretaries were conversing.

"Why don't you persuade your old man to get his hair cut?" said one.

"He looks like the old man of the sea."

"I know," said the other, "but he won't go to the barber's. I can't persuade him."

"I can," replied his friend, and the next day he approached Lord Balfour, the "old man" in question.

"Oh, sir," he said, "how like Mr. Lloyd George you look with your hair long like that."

Lord Balfour arose and went to the barber's on the spot.

THE LOWER DECK.

COMMUNIST ACTIVITIES DENOUNCED.

COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF'S ORDERS.
(Reuter's Service.)

Portsmouth, Dec. 16.
Naval Port Orders issued by the Commander-in-Chief, Admiral Sir Sydney Fremantle, states that the Admiralty's attention has been called to the distribution, presumably through Communist activities, of pamphlets circulated widely in His Majesty's ships and Naval barracks in Home waters.
The Admiralty has therefore directed that a statement shall be read to all ships' companies and placed on notice boards in all His Majesty's ships and establishments, showing there is no foundation for the allegations contained in the pamphlets, and pointing out that the writers of the pamphlets are not interested in the welfare of the lower deck, but aim at discontent, facilitating the introduction, by revolutionary violence, of a form of government similar to Russia.

WAR DEBTS.

ACRIMONIOUS AMERICAN DEBATE.

SOME PLAIN WORDS.

Washington, Dec. 16.
An unusually acrimonious debate in the Senate was occasioned by Republican efforts to deal with the Italian and Belgian settlements before Christmas.
Senator Reed attacked the British settlement as "whitewashing international bribery" to permit them to make loans to debtors at six to seven per cent.
He asserted that under the Italian settlement the United States would not get one per cent of the principal.
Senator Smoot, however, doubted Italy's ability to pay even the amount promised.
Several members bitterly criticised France. Senator Smoot stated "France blundered" but that she owes us nothing, but unless she makes a settlement the franc will go the way of the mark.
The Republicans were forced to abandon their efforts to obtain an immediate consideration of the agreements.

AIR DISASTER.

AN AMERICAN COURT-MARTIAL.

COLONEL MITCHELL'S POSITION.

(Reuter's Service.)

Washington, Dec. 17.
Both the prosecution and defence have completed their cases in the court-martial of Colonel Mitchell.
The most important event was placing the evidence of the letter written by Mr. Weeks, when Secretary of War, to President Coolidge, describing Mitchell as "unfit for his high administrative position" and as an officer whose course was so "lawless" that despite his excellent war record he had forfeited the good opinion of those most familiar with the facts.
A Washington message of November 24 stated:
Colonel Mitchell, giving evidence in his own defence at the court-martial reiterated the charge that American Government Departments were "guilty of almost treasonable negligence" because they had not provided adequate aerial defence against foreign aggression. He gave it as his opinion that an enemy aeroplane a hundred miles out at sea could drop bombs wirelessly directed at will within an area as large as New York City, and never miss a target.

EXTREME NATIONALISTS ARRESTED.
(Reuter's Service.)

Berlin, December 16.
A plot to assassinate Herr Stresemann was revealed when the police arrested two extreme nationalist politicians, Dr. Dietrich and Dr. Lohmann.

The plot was already planned with all details, including disguises, a motor car and telephone flight.

ANOTHER CRISIS?

FRENCH FINANCIAL SITUATION.

A SHORT-LIVED STOPPAGE.

(Reuter's Service.)

Paris, December 16.
M. Paul Doumer has been appointed Finance Minister.
That M. Doumer will be a short-lived stoppage is the opinion of the whole of the evening press, which is preparing for another crisis.
The Doumerliets are completely dissatisfied with the appointment. M. Doumer says Doumer is ready to accumulate the proposals to the disadvantage of all parties, but newspapers unanimously predict he will not go far.
The Doumerliets say the Doumerliet will fall and a Government by national union will become inevitable.
M. Doumer was born on March 22, 1857. He was elected deputy in 1888 and 1902, and appointed Minister of Finance in 1906-08. He was Governor-General of Indo-China in 1907-1908. He was elected Senator in 1912, and was Minister of Finance again in 1921-22. He has a wide reputation, especially in the Senate, as a sound financial authority on somewhat conservative lines.

AERIAL EXPANSION.

APPEAL FOR RESTRICTION.

THE BRITISH PROGRAMME.

(Reuter's Service.)

London, December 16.
An international appeal to restrict aerial expansion was implied in a speech by Sir E. Hoare at West London.
He declared that while he was able to recommend the postponement of certain forms of expansion, the British programme must depend on the attitude of other Governments.
He said that notwithstanding our notorious inferiority compared with continental nations, and also our peculiar vulnerability from the air we were prepared, as a result of Lourenco, to delay our programme to some extent.
He hoped other countries would follow the example and enable Governments to avoid a race of arms.

CLOSER TOUCH.

CANTON-HONGKONG PEACE MOVES.

SWATOW SUBMISSION.

Tuesday's "Canton Gazette" says:—
Recently the news in regard to the resumption of communications between Hongkong and Canton, as well as the settlement of the strike, is highly promising.
The two parties are likely to come into closer terms with each other day by day, and the settlement of the strike does not now seem far off.
Fourteen stipulations are given in Tuesday's "Canton Gazette" as having been submitted to the British in Swatow as the terms for resumption of work by strikers.
They include, briefly:—
Reinstatement of strikers and benefits; the British Coast to cooperate with a Strike Committee to award compensation for future employment and dismissal under labour union approval; standard working hours, etc.

XMAS LEGENDS.

THE BLEEDING OF HORSES.

THE THREE MAGI.

The Legend of the Magi has its origin in the simple story of the Scriptures as narrated by St. Matthew, every century adding its quota of particulars to the original account, but a drop in an ocean of detail. In time the number of the Magi was categorically stated to be three, and minute descriptions were given not only of their personal appearance, but of their gifts.
Even their place of burial was located, and their bones transferred to the great church of St. Sophia in Constantinople. Removed later (1164) to the world-renowned cathedral of Cologne, their remains, says Chambers, were placed in a "magnificent reliquary enriched with gems and enamels, still remaining, in its marble shrine in the cathedral, one of the chief wonders of the noble pile and the principal sight in Cologne."
A heavy fee is exacted for opening the door of the chapel, which is then lighted with lamps, producing a dazzling effect in the mass of gilded and jewelled sculpture, in the centre of which may be seen the three skulls, reputed to be those of the Magi. These relics are enveloped in velvet, and decorated with embroidery and jewels, so that only the upper part of each skull is seen, and the hollow eyes which, as the faithful believe, once rested on the Saviour.
Boxing Day is the festival of St. Stephen, the first martyr for the Christian faith, who, for some unaccountable reason appears to have been regarded for centuries as the patron of horses. According to an interesting old book, entitled "Wits, Fits, and Fancies," it was, therefore, the day when it was the custom for all horses to be let blood and drenched. Details are given by Barnaby Rudge:—
Then followeth St. Stephen's day, wherein doth every man his horses jaunt and course abroad, as swiftly as he can. Until they doe extremely swate, and then they let them blood. For this being done upon this day they say doth do them good, And keeps them from all maladies and sickness through the year.
As if that Stephen any time took charge of horses being During the season of Advent— the "three weeks before the day whereon was borne the Lord of Grace"—rustic young girls in many corners of England used to find amusement and delight in the old Hallow'E'en custom of attempting to divine the name and disposition of the men they were to marry.
Four anyone, five, or eight, they take, And make in every one. Such names as they do fancies most. And best doth think upon. Thus neere the chimney them they set. And that same O'gon (that) That first doth sprouts doth surely beare. The name of their road was.

THEFT CHARGE.

FREE, MODERN COUNTESS.

When the trial on charges of theft of the Countess Ellipor von Bothmer, belonging to one of the oldest aristocratic families in Germany, was resumed, a sensation was caused in court by the evidence of a witness named Chang, who declared that the Countess had offered him a bribe of 500 marks to confess to thefts alleged to have been committed by her at a Pomeranian bathing-resort.
The Countess, who is a beautiful woman in the prime of life, is alleged to have stolen some of the articles reported in the charges from the house of the president of the Potsdam Law Courts, an old friend of the family, while she was staying there. The articles alleged to have been stolen at the bathing resort were the property of a woman acquaintance.
The Countess, whose husband attempted to commit suicide when the charges became public, declares that the case against her has been fabricated out of spite because of her "free, modern" ways.
When cross-examined as to her relationship with a certain police officer, Captain Heffer, she denied that they were on anything more than merely friendly terms, though she admitted that he had kissed her.

STAR FILM.

COOK'S TOUR OF ENGLAND.

MAURICE FAINE STORY.

As good as a Cook's tour of England is the description of the fourteen reels of film taken by the Goldwyn company for "The Christian," the Goldwyn picture, coming to the Star Theatre to-day for three days, in which Richard Dix, Mae Busch, Phyllis Haver, Garth Hughes were being directed by Maurice Tourneur.
The unedited film included as a background for the stirring drama of the story, scenes on the Isle of Man, beautiful views of Epsom Downs race-track on Derby, the moistered gardens of Kensington, Houses of Parliament, Whitehall and the River Thames, Cambridge, historic Stratford Square, where his most interesting scenes were staged by permission of the London Council, White-chapel and St. John, the slum section, and a "stirring" atmosphere in contrast that of Piccadilly and the Strand. Of course all of this film could not be used in the final result but enough has been retained to give spectators a good idea of England and the Isle of Man.
Hall Caine, the author of the novel wrote the scenario on which the present adaptation was based. The novelist also worked with the Tourneur company helping them to find the most suitable locations and generally using his influence in their behalf. The company was ten weeks making the trip and procuring the necessary scenes.

At the Central Magistracy yesterday, a Chinese passenger was fined $10 for spitting inside a tram car, evidence of which was given by Mr. D. E. Evans. The manager of the Tramway Company said that with reliable witness he thought it possible to put a stop to the disgusting habit of spitting inside or from the cars.

In discharging a Chinese rice shop manager charged at Kowloon yesterday with the larceny of $370 belonging to the firm, the Magistrate remarked that he had very grave suspicions that the charge had been concocted. At a previous hearing a conspiracy was alleged on the part of the complainant (a woman) in bringing the action following a demand by the defendant of money paid by him for ransom of her children who had been kidnapped by bandits.

Vagrant children in Russia number more than 300,000, the Commissar of Education has found. He characterized it as a situation menacing the welfare of the country, and accordingly has organized a new system of factory schools intended to teach the waifs various trades in addition to their general education.

A campaign to raise 1,500,000 yen so that three women's colleges in Tokyo can be elevated to the same rank as men's universities has been undertaken by the three colleges concerned, the Nippon Woman's College, the Tokyo Women's College, and the Japan Jogakko, the latter of which is still a high school. In order to be given this rank, each school must have 500,000 yen as a security fund and must expand the present four-year course to a three-year preparatory course and a three-year university course.

At a recent meeting of the consultative committee of women's organizations, attention was drawn to the fact that Britain still permitted the export of live horses for butchery, and that much unnecessary suffering was caused to these animals through bad travelling arrangements, hunger and thirst, and the cruel methods of killing employed in France and Belgium. It was urged that only the carcasses should be allowed to leave the country, and a resolution, signed by 16 societies, was passed calling on the Government to introduce legislation to prevent the export of these horses while they were still alive.

Evening classes have made considerable progress in France. During the past season 1131 free evening classes for adults were held in and about Paris. The number of persons who put down their names as pupils was 35,358, of whom 9415 were women. The regular attendance was about 24,155. It is remarked, however, that this number lessens considerably toward the end of the season.

The following is from a "Daily News" interview with Mr. J. H. Hes, the founder of the National Brass Band Festival:

"How is it you are always pulling off so many prizes in band contests and in cricket matches?" one North Country bandman asked another. "It's like this," replied the other. "In our village, as soon as our boys can speak they are asked 'Is it bands or cricket?' and if they don't say one or the other we just wring their necks!"

The genealogy of Signor Mussolini is still enthusiastically discussed by many of his admirers. Probably he himself prefers to retain his not distant humble origin. But his latest chronicler, Prince Fabrizio Massimo, says, supporting his theory with actual proofs, that Mussolini's ancestors can be traced as far back as the thirteenth century. At the Bardini Museum in Florence, recently opened to the public, there is a stone sarcophagus bearing an inscription in semi-Gothic characters which shows that the name Mussolini was already famous toward the middle of the fourteenth century. A second proof is a round bronze seal with the words, "Sigillum Nicolai de Mussolinis," and the coat of arms in the centre. This seal bears date, but its character and form point to the first half of the fifteenth century. This seal also lies in Florence in the Bargello Museum.

The first "£3,000 a year" woman in British official life is Miss Emily Russell-Smith. She has won the distinction of being the first woman to pass a Civil Service examination for one of the higher governmental posts. Her name appears ninth on a long list of successful applicants, the great majority of whom were men. Under the new rules, women who pass the necessary examinations are now eligible for eventual appointment as permanent under-secretaries or positions of equal rank paying from £3,000 to £3,500 a year.

Whether it is better to have fifty bosses in one year, or one boss in fifty years, might well be answered by Sir William Soulsby from his experience of having enjoyed fifty bosses in as many years. For he has been secretary to half a hundred Lord Mayors of London and has just launched upon his second half-century of service in this line. When recalling the other day his recollections of the interesting bit of information that when he first assumed his position everybody used quill pens and every letter was sealed with red or black wax, while the old copying presses then employed resembled a steam-horse's stepping post.

Deputy Eugenio Casagrande and Major Ranucci of the Italian Air Force will shortly attempt to fly from Rome to Buenos Aires in a gigantic airplane specially constructed for this transatlantic flight. It is also believed that Gabriele D'Annunzio, who is now an honorary general of the air force, will take part in the expedition, although nothing definite can be said for the moment. The airplane has made its first trial flight with great success. The machine, which is sixteen meters in length, is fitted with two cabins which each hold four persons comfortably. The carrying capacity, including passengers, pilots and mechanics, is fifteen all told. The airplane can fly about 2,200 miles without the necessity of landing for supplies.

Astonishment that theologians do not better realize the logical and philosophical strength of their own position" was expressed by Dr. Francis Graham Crookshanks, a former house physician of University College, in his remarks on spiritual healing before a large gathering of doctors and the clergy at a Hunterian Society meeting. No one was justified, said Dr. Crookshanks, in declaring that if faith healing cures did occur, only functional cases were cured, unless he was prepared to define the distinction between physical and psychical methods. Of all the absurd bogies, he declared, none was more ridiculous than the alleged antithesis between functional and organic disease. The speaker said he could assert confidently that there was no known reason why the cure of organic disease, however defined, should not react to the exercise of faith prayer.

Unless so far fixed are:— Club v. Navy on January 9 and January 23.

Earlier games are no criterion as to the real form as full sides have not turned out for either the senior service or the civilians. It is understood that everybody concerned is in strict training so that some excellent rugger ought to be seen.

Last season the Army scratched and dates for them have yet to be arranged.

New York, Dec. 16.—The Canadian hockey team of Montreal won the Prince of Wales trophy by defeating the New York Americans by 3 goals to 1 at Madison Square Gardens.

Fifteen thousand spectators listened to selections played by the Canadian Governor-General's Footguards—Reuter's American Service.

HOCKEY MATCH.

CLUB 1ST XI DEFEAT FLAGSHIP.

CURIOUS GOAL AWARD.

To a spectator at least, it seemed that a goal was awarded to the Hongkong Hockey Club by a referee in yesterday's match with H.M.S. "Hawkins" when the ball was thrown into the net from touch without being played in the circle, by one of the attacking side.

However, the Club 1st XI beat H.M.S. "Hawkins" by 4 goals to 3 and deserved to win. Dyer Ball, the famous Club forward of earlier years, had the exasperation of seeing about half a dozen lovely shots skim the uprights. On the whole the Club did most of the pressing and were superior.

Shortly after the start (with the Club XI short of a few men as is usual) the flagship became one up. Woodward put the Club on terms. Then Martin threw in from touch and it looked as if the ball did strike some of the players (or their sticks) outside the Navy circle, but not inside. The "Hawkins" goalie did not seem to attempt to stop the pill, which rolled on, and a goal was given. One or two had a wild whack but none of the Club forwards was near enough.

Price and Evans also scored for the Club who held the advantage to the end.

The Club 1st XI was:— E. W. Hamilton; A. P. T. Parquharson, C. L. R. Becker; A. S. Hett, E. J. R. Mitchell (Capt.), Rev. E. W. L. Martin; H. Owen Hughes, A. Dyer Ball, W. Woodward, B. D. Evans and T. J. Price.

THE NOBLE ART.

PROGRAMME FOR NEXT TOURNEY.

TENTATIVE DETAILS.

Four 5-round preliminaries and a 10-round "second-liner" have been arranged tentatively for the H.K.B.A.'s third tournament of the season, starting 9.15 p.m. on December 23, the feature of which will be the eagerly expected meeting between Cartridge and Morris.

However, permission is awaited in the case of two of the boxers, as stated in this page on Tuesday.

The programme is:— 15 rounds, catchweight, C.P.O. Cartridge (H.M.'s Naval Yard) v. Stoker Morris (Hermes).

10 rounds, featherweight, Stoker Nagalin (Jules Mitchell) v. Drummer Bowles (1/E, Surrey).

6 rounds, lightweight, A.B. Baker (Hermes) v. Bandsman Wareham (1/E, Surrey).

6 rounds, middleweight, A.B. Pearce (Hawkins) v. A.B. Miller (Hermes).

6 rounds, featherweight, H. Major (Hongkong) v. A.B. Gardner (Hermes).

6 rounds, welterweight, A.B. Jackson (Hawkins) v. Stoker Morrell (Hawkins).

Should Nagalin not appear it is likely that Major will be put in his place for the 10-round bout with Bowles.

If Wareham is not available then Ldg. Tel. Emmerson of the Marazion (who has issued a challenge for a 10-round contest) may be substituted and he will therefore fight a return with Baker.

TEST YARNS.

"WHY ENGLAND LOST AT CRICKET."

OFFICIAL DENIALS.

(Times of Ceylon.)

London, Nov. 23. An accusation, alleged to have been made by the Vice-President of the Football Association, Mr. John Lewis, in a recent speech, that the English cricketers in Australia would have done better had they been test-tubers, met with emphatic denials from all quarters.

Mr. Lewis, who is known in the North as "Honest John," is a lifelong abstainer, and was manager of the soccer touring team who followed in the wake of the M.C.C. team in Australia.

Interviewed by the "Evening Standard" he denies the above report, and says that what he did say was that they might have done better, which, he said, was based in information obtained while in Australia.

GILLIGAN:—"SUCH NONSENSE." Mr. A. E. R. Gilligan (captain of the M.C.C. team) comments: "Such nonsense makes me angry. It is an insult to me, to the whole team, and to the manager, Mr. Toone, as well. Neither he nor I ever had occasion to take any steps."

Mr. J. W. H. T. Douglas said it was a wicked shame that this had been said. A steadier lot it would be difficult to imagine.

Mr. P. G. H. Fender said: "There is nothing in the suggestion. Anyone can say this sort of thing if he chooses."

Hearne (J. W.) said there was no intemperance. Such a suggestion was absurd.

Sydney, Nov. 24. Referring to the "Lewis story" regarding the M.C.C. H. L. Collins, (the Australian cricket captain and selector) says the remarks are unjust and uncalled for. The Englishmen were a most temperate team.

The manager at Sydney, Mr. S. Smith (manager of the 1921 tour in England), declares that the allegations are absurd. The losses by the last English Test team were not due to drink.

The team was one of the finest that ever visited Australia.

ENGLAND LOOKS TO HOBBS.

(Times of Ceylon.)

London, Nov. 24. Speaking at a dinner at the Guildhall, Cambridge, yesterday evening, in recognition of the achievements of Jack Hobbs, Mr. P. F. Warner hoped the Motherland would reassert her supremacy in cricket. He said that would depend greatly on Hobbs, and he prayed he might retain his matchless skill for at least one more year.

"You have absolutely got to beat the Australians or there will be a slump in English cricket. We have got the material. It only remains for the 'Selection' Committee to make the most of that material."

There are certain reasons for doubting the accounts of people of advanced age. In the first place, the love of the marvellous innate in human nature gives us cause to suspect exaggeration. On the other hand, notable scientific writers, wishing to obtain evidence to support various theories, have professed to believe in extraordinary cases of longevity.

Mistakes have been made in figures. Many authorities say that the stories told of the Countess of Desmond, for instance, really relate to two or three ladies of the title. And in the case of a woman Carr, of Shore-ditch, supposed to have lived to actually 207, it was found that she had been cut over "1" on her tombstone.

170 YEARS OLD.

THE WORLD'S OLDEST PEOPLE.

QUAINT MEMORIES.

A portrait which has recently been added to the National Portrait Gallery is that of the Countess of Desmond, who died in 1804; and they say that when she died she was 104 years old!

Lord Bacon in his "Natural History" says that during the course of her life she lost her teeth two or three times, and others came in their place.

Turned out of her domain of Inchiquin, in Munster, by the scheming of the Earl of Cork, it is related that she came to London to seek help, walking all the way from Bristol; while her daughter was so decrepit with age that she had to be brought along in a cart. Presumably this daughter was a mere child of seventy or eighty at that time.

REMEMBERED FLOODING. Two people only, in the Christian era, are believed, on anything like adequate grounds, to have lived longer than the Countess—Henry Jenkins and Thomas Parr.

Henry Jenkins was supposed to have been no less than 169 years old when he died. He was a Yorkshireman, living near Catterick.

There are some very strong proofs that he did actually attain this advanced age. A Mrs. Saville, a cultured Yorkshire lady at that time, was staying in a house where this modern Methuselah came to ask for alms. She seized this chance of conversing with a man reputed to be so old.

He told her that he remembered taking a cartload of arrows to Northallerton for the use of the English army on its way to Scotland to fight the battle of Flodden Field. At one time he had been butler to the Lord Conyers, and remembered the Abbot of Fountains coming now and then to take a glass with his master.

At the time when he delivered these recollections of a vanished world he believed himself to be 163. Several very old people in the neighbourhood told Mrs. Saville that when they were quite young Jenkins was already a very old man.

MARRIED AT 122. Thomas Parr—"Old Parr"—enjoys the distinction of a biography by the poet John Taylor. According to this account of his life, Parr was born at Winnington, near Shrewsbury, in 1493.

When he was 80, he married his first wife. This woman died when he was 112, and ten years later he married again.

One may say that, although Parr did not exactly die of old age, his immense age was the cause of his death. The Earl of Arundel, a noted curiosity-hunter of the time, came to live on his estates near Shrewsbury. He heard of this ancient man, and took him up to London in a specially constructed litter.

He was exhibited some weeks at the "Queen's Head," in the Strand; and in September, 1635, was presented to King Charles I. The change of air and unusually rich diet proved fatal to him. He died in Lord Arundel's house on November 14, 1635.

He had no special rules with regard to his habits of living. It is stated that he was a great sleeper.

DOUBTFUL CASES. Many other cases of great longevity have been reported, but on very doubtful evidence. Louisa Truxo, an English woman who died in 1780, has been sometimes said to have lived to 175!

Henry Francisco, a Frenchman, living in America, was believed to have been 185 when he died in 1819. He claimed that, as a boy of sixteen, he witnessed the coronation of Queen Anne, his father being a Huguenot who fled to England during the persecution of that sect.

ODDS AND ENDS

Mothers-in-Law.

For many years now, remarks the "Sunday Times," the mother-in-law has been the butt of the red-nosed comedian; and it is time she had a rest from ridicule.

The world has joked incessantly for over fifty centuries. And every joke that's possible has long ago been made! and this particular jest is played out. When it began is not certain; though the Victorian age was far from partial to the mother-in-law. Dickens caricatured her as Mrs. Weller; Thackeray gave her the vices without the virtues of a Becky Sharp. But the idea of the disagreeable relation is older and wider spread than this. Venus, it will be remembered, was barely polite to Psyche; and even now in Macedonia, it is said, a form of salutation after sneezing runs, "Health to thee, and joy to thee—and may thy mother-in-law burst!" Well, it is high time the mother-in-law was whitewashed; and as Mr. Justice Avey pointed out, she is a mother-in-law only second, and first a mother.

London Regrets.
London was never planned, it has grown; you can feel its primitive and undulating soil under your feet, and that soil, when uncovered, proves to be the palimpsest of nearly two thousand years of human history. There was, indeed, a momentous hour in which the question of a newly planned London arose—the hour in which Sir Christopher Wren's great plan of rebuilding was considered. But it was put aside, with the result that nearly all the arteries and veins and capillaries of London are the old medieval maze. Where large "improvements" have been carried out there has been much gained, but—at any rate for old Londoners—much lost. I have never ceased to regret the immense Kingsway-Aldwych scheme in which old Booksellers' Row and its island site, and Wyck Street, and all that labyrinth of seventeenth-century lanes through which you zig-zagged from the Strand up to Holborn, became as Nineveh and Babylon. That was a warm, teeming, intensely human district. Mr. Bone, who cannot remember it as I do, gives me the words I want when, abroad, of the massive heavy splendour of the Victoria Embankment, he says:—How often on a return from the Continent does one sigh for something different, something related to the intimate life of the Londoner! Memories arise of the Paris quays with the cafes and shops and resident population, the loungers browsing among the bookstalls, children playing on the wide pavements, and little trades and domestic affairs going on at house-doors and at the kerb. London lost a great deal of that when Holborn was given in marriage to the Strand. How well I recall those narrow asphalted lanes, the gables glistening here and there with old red tiles, the hand-organs and dancing children, and now and then the tremendous long-drawn pomp of some publican's funeral—John o' London in "John o' London's Weekly." Unsatisfied.

THE SECRET Of Her Health and Charm.

Many women the world over admit that the secret of their radiant health lies in the pure, rich, red blood given them by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The case of a Canadian lady, Mrs. S. J. Watts, of Kingston, Ontario, serves as an example:—

"My first experience with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills was while attending the Collegiate Institute at about the age of seventeen," says Mrs. Watts. "It became very much run-down and could not go up stairs without resting half way. Finally I had to quit school and notwithstanding all that was done for me there were no signs of improvement until after I had begun using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills; under the use of this medicine I became well and strong. My next experience with this medicine was some years after I was married. After my baby boy was born I did not gain up as I should, so I at once started taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills again. I took them all the time I was nursing my baby, and you should have seen what a lovely, fat, healthy boy he was, and I was strong once more. Whenever I feel a bit run down Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are my tonic and I strongly recommend them to growing girls and all women."

You can get these Pills through any medicine dealer, or, by mail, at $1.50 per bottle & bottles for $3, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60, Kingsway Road, Shanghai. If weak or ailing it would be wise to begin to build up your own health today with ren playing on the wide pavements, and little trades and domestic affairs going on at house-doors and at the kerb. London lost a great deal of that when Holborn was given in marriage to the Strand. How well I recall those narrow asphalted lanes, the gables glistening here and there with old red tiles, the hand-organs and dancing children, and now and then the tremendous long-drawn pomp of some publican's funeral—John o' London in "John o' London's Weekly." Unsatisfied.

She flung an orange-coloured wrapper of silk about her shoulders and stepped out on her balcony. A lover of trees, she always managed to live where something green surged up to her balcony. There had been a shu-mac in Chelsea; days, a plane in Bloomsbury. Here in her flat she looked out to sturdy old elms, whose treacherous branches had been lopped long ago, but in their pollarded growth they satisfied her. She watched them through the wine-red unfolding of their flowers in the early days of spring, and joyed in the promise given, thrilled to the unfolding of their buds, and proudly waited for the rich greenery which, in turn, brought the mellow tints of the fall. She had been born at the time of bud-unfolding, and each spring awakened a sweet restlessness. Usually it turned to work—the ache to accomplish. But to-night there was something awake in her which work would not satisfy. As the March winds ruffled her hair, as she smelt the earth-odours and felt the beating pulses of the night, Anne became aware of a new longing. When she stepped back into her room it was still with her. The drawing of the curtains did not shut it out. She wandered about the room, a queer puzzled look in her dark eyes. When she caught the orange-tinted reflection in the mirror, it drew her over to look at herself. She found the curves, and delicate lines of her figure pleasing beneath the richly-tinted clinging silk; she liked the way her hair fell about her in the shadowy cloud. There was a half-smile in her eyes, a tingling in her veins. She seemed to stand expectant, not knowing for what she waited—Shingled, by Joan Kennedy (Philpot, Ltd.).
